INSIDE SPECIAL
"SLASHER SPREAD"

9-11 — That night Tina has everyone sleep overnight. The dreams begin again.

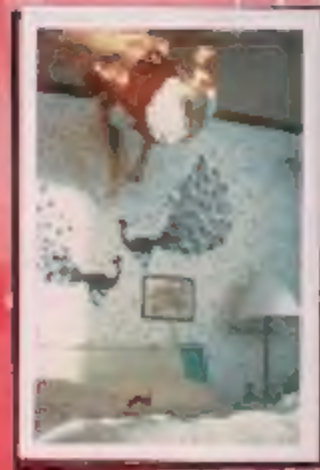

10-10 — A dream shared by his schoolmates, Rod, Nancy and Glen.

12-14 — Tina finds herself outside lying a deluged man with extended finger blades.

19-21 — Rod awakes from his sleep to find Tina screaming and struggling with an unseen assailant. Cuts open across her body as if she is being slashed by a series of invisible razors. Her body is lifted into the air.

22-23 — Rod panics and flies through an open window. Nancy and Glen break into the locked bedroom to find Tina's bloody body. Rod is gone.

24-27 — The next day Nancy decides to go to school ignoring her mother's advice to stay home. On her way there, Nancy is grabbed by Rod and pulled into the bushes. Immediately they are surrounded by the police who followed Nancy, lead by police lieutenant Don Thompson, Nancy's father.

28-29 — That afternoon Nancy does off in class. Tina's mutilated form returns in a body bag causing Nancy to drop into the toilet room. The man responsible for Tina's death pursues Nancy with his fingerknives raised for the kill.

Nancy awakens, screaming out loud in class.

30-32 — Once home she decides to take a relaxing bath causing her to fall asleep. Suddenly she is grabbed and pulled under the water. By twisting and kicking she frees herself and escapes drowning.

33-38 — That night Glen pays Nancy a visit and agrees to keep watch over her. As she sleeps, Nancy sees Rod getting murdered in jail.

29-31 — Tina's dead body reappears at the flasher church. Nancy to her room. The awakening sound of the alarm clock saves Nancy.

46-51 — At Rod's funeral, Nancy describes, surprised her parents that these deaths are caused by one man. They are shocked as Nancy describes the killer.

44-47 — Once awake, Nancy and Glen race to the jail to stop Rod from being murdered. Nancy's father is too late as he finds Rod hanging from his cell window. It is written in the police report as a suicide.

52-55 — Nancy's mother, Marge, admits her daughter to the Katja Institute for Sleep Disorders. Nancy is monitored as she falls asleep and begins to dream. The machines never before registered such an intense response. Nancy awakens, holding the flasher's hat in her hands. Frenzied inside the heart is the owner's name. "Who is Fred Engert?" asks Nancy. Marge has some explaining to do.

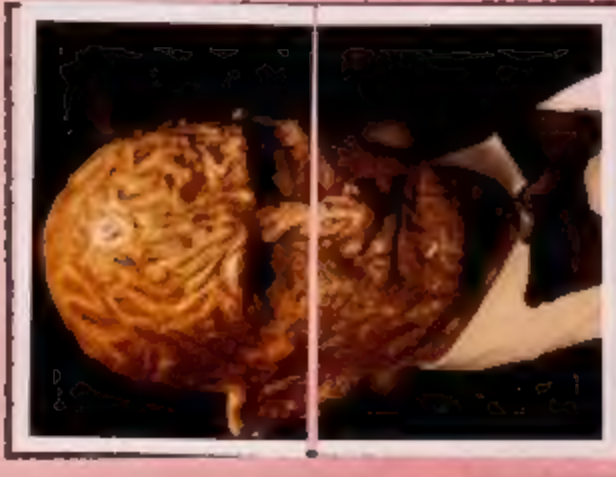

"SLEEP THOSE LITTLE SLICES OF DEATH
HOW I LOATHE THEM!"
—EDGAR ALLEN POE

120.119 — The man of your dreams. One, two, Freddy's coming for you. Three, four, better luck, your choice. Five, six, grab your crucifix. Seven, eight, gotta stay up late. Nine, ten, never sleep again.

"SLASHER SPREAD"

56-58 — "Ten years ago," explains Marge, "there was a man who was murdering children. He was caught and arrested but was released due to a legal technicality. The parents of Elm Street, including myself, tracked Freddy to the abandoned power plant where he would bury the murdered children. We poured gasoline around the building and set it afire. I was able to salvage the bladed glove and I then held it here in the furnace."

59 — The following day Nancy tells Glen she plans to bring Fred Kruger out of her dream.

60-65 — That night Glen dozes off while watching television. Nancy makes an attempt to warn him of the danger that the kids on Elm Street face, but to her despair he is dragged into his bed and violently murdered.

66-71 — With the help of books she has read, Nancy sets booby traps throughout the house before falling asleep. With her alarm set, Nancy goes back into her dream to bring Freddy out.

While Freddy is chasing her, the alarm sounds and Nancy awakens back in her room. But it appears she's alone, and then Freddy leaps over Nancy's bed and captures her.

A Nightmare ON ELM STREET:2 FREDDY'S REVENGE

61-67 — Jesse Walsh now dreams in the house on Elm Street that has been silently empty for five years.

A school bus speeds off the main road and off into the desert. The ground crumbles around it as the driver who is dressed in a soiled red and green striped sweater approaches with his talon-tipped glove raised in the air. Jesse wakes screaming.

68-69 — Jesse drives his new friend Lisa Pearson to and from school everyday. A relationship that has more potential than just friendship.

90 — At school a dispute breaks out between Jesse and classmate Ronny Grady over a baseball game. Coach Schroeder breaks up the fight and inflicts his own self-inflicted wound.

Later, in the locker room, Ronny tells Jesse about a man who went insane who once lived in his house.

91-92 — That night Jesse is awakened by a noise in the basement. He sees the man from his dreams digging in some ruins and pulling out the knitted glove.

In the hallway the man catches up with Jesse and suggests a partnership on murder.

93-94 — The next day, Lisa comes to visit and finds a diary in Jesse's closet left by the girl who lived there. The girl had similar dreams with the same threatening character named Freddy Krueger.

The following day Jesse drives off in science class while Grady plays a joke by putting the pet snake around his neck. Jesse awakes sweating.

At baseball practice Jesse and Grady are caught making the coach. As a result, he inflicts his usual physical punishment on the boys again.

140-149 — The child murderer claims another victim as he reverts back to Jesse, leaving him with the guilt and blame.

150-158 — With Grace's blood on his hands, Jesse returns to Lisa's pool party. She urges Jesse to fight the fear that breeds Freddy. But still he transforms into Freddy. He chases Lisa and is about to do her in when the inner conflict of Jesse's soul for Lisa makes Freddy fling himself through the glass doors and disappear.
